SELF MANAGEMENT SKILLS Unit II

SELF MANAGEMENT SKILLS

Self-management skills help a person control their thoughts, feelings, desires, and actions. These skills improve productivity and performance in work and career. They are important for building a successful career and handling difficult situations. This topic also includes learning about stress, ways to manage stress, and how to work independently.

Following are some of the skills you must master to succeed in life:

1. Self-awareness: Understand yourself better by asking for honest feedback. Think about how you act daily and how you can improve.
2. Responsibility: Take full ownership of your tasks. If you make a mistake or miss a deadline, admit it and fix it.
3. Time Management: Plan your tasks, avoid wasting time, and follow a proper schedule.
4. Adaptability: Be open to change, keep learning new things, and adjust easily to new situations.

What is Stress?

Stress is how we react emotionally, mentally, physically, and socially to pressure or challenges (called stressors).

Example:

- Feeling unprepared before exams
- Losing someone close
- Worrying about other's opinions on your appearance or confidence

Stress Management - means planning ways to handle daily pressure effectively. The goal is to maintain a healthy balance between work, life, relationships, and relaxation so you can handle challenges confidently.

ABC of Stress Management:

- A – Adversity: The stressful situation
- B – Beliefs: how you think or react to it
- C – Consequences: The results of your actions

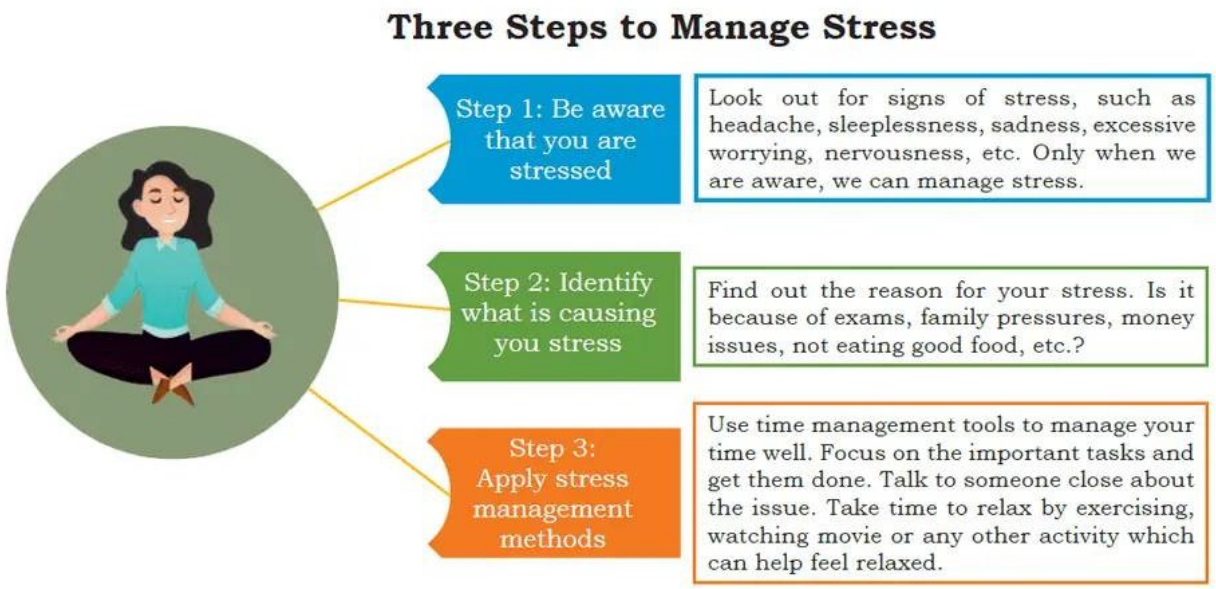
Ability to Work Independently - means staying calm and managing your work on your own. It includes:

- Understanding yourself and improving your actions
- Knowing what tasks to do
- Taking initiative without waiting for instructions
- Accepting mistakes instead of blaming others
- Being willing to keep learning continuously



Stress Management Techniques:

- Time Management: Plan your time well to reduce stress.
- Exercise & Fresh Air: Stay active with activities like walking, yoga, or meditation to relax your body.
- Healthy Diet: Eat balanced food like dal, roti, vegetables, and fruits to stay strong and stress-free.
- Positivity: Focus on good things and think positively, even in difficult situations.
- Sleep: Get at least 7 hours of sleep to feel refreshed and active.
- Breaks & Holidays: Spend time with family and take short breaks or trips to relax and feel refreshed.

Emotional Intelligence is the ability to understand and manage your own emotions and others' emotions.

- Emotional Awareness: Knowing and naming your feelings
- Using Emotions: Applying emotions to think and solve problems
- Managing Emotions: Controlling your emotions and helping others manage theirs

Steps to Improve Emotional Intelligence:

- Understand Your Emotions: Notice your behavior and identify areas to improve.
- Think Rationally: Avoid making quick decisions; think calmly and logically.
- Practice Calmness: Do activities like meditation and yoga to stay relaxed.

Identifying Strengths and Weaknesses

Finding Strengths:

- Notice what you do well and succeed in
- Think about what others appreciate in you
- Take time to reflect on your abilities

Finding Weaknesses:

- Identify areas where you struggle
- Pay attention to feedback from others
- Accept your weaknesses positively and see them as chances to improve

Difference Between Interests and Abilities

Interests:

- Things you enjoy doing in your free time
- Activities you are curious about or like to learn
- Things you want to do in the future

Abilities (Strengths):

- Skills you naturally have or have learned
- Help you perform tasks well and efficiently

Types of Motivation:

- Internal: Doing things because they make you feel good or help you grow (e.g., learning dance or singing).
- External: Doing things for recognition, rewards, or appreciation (e.g., winning a race motivates regular practice).

Qualities of Self-Motivated People:

- Clear about what they want
- Focused and dedicated
- Know what's important in life

How to Build Self-Motivation:

- Discover your strengths
- Set clear goals and stay focused
- Make a plan to achieve them
- Stay committed to your goals

Goals: Goals are dreams with a deadline. For example, saving pocket money to buy a mobile phone by a certain date.

Goal Setting: It means listing your goals and planning how to achieve them.

How to Set Goals (SMART Method):

- Specific: Be clear about what you want, why, and how.
  Example: "I will learn English fluently by joining daily coaching classes and participate in the inter-school debate in six months."
- Measurable: Know how to track your progress.
  Example: "I want to have 5 times more money than I have now by the end of the year."
- Achievable: Break big goals into smaller steps.
  Example: "I want to become a teacher in my school by completing the required studies step by step."
- Realistic: Set goals that are practical and doable.
  Example: "Study 3 hours daily to revise subjects and score well."
- Time-bound: Give a clear deadline to complete the goal.
  Example: "Lose 10 kg in the next 6 months."

Time Management:

Time management helps your complete tasks on time, make daily schedules, estimate task duration, submit work punctually, and avoid wasting time.

Four Steps for Effective Time Management:

- Organize: Plan your daily activities.
- Prioritize: Make a to-do list and rank tasks by importance.
- Control: Manage your activities and time effectively.
- Track: Keep track of how your time is spent
